

SPLENDID MEETING WAS HELD

FARMERS, BUSINESS MEN AND CANNERS GATHERED HERE ON MONDAY NIGHT

HOAGLAND THE SPEAKER

Scott County Man Gave Principal Talk of the Evening. Local Men Spoke. Want Quality Tomatoes

The meeting held Monday evening in the Greencastle Canning factory for the farmers of the community, business men of the city and local canners was a complete success.

Carl Butterfield, one of the junior members of the plant, called the meeting to order at 7:45 o'clock and then opened the gathering with a few well chosen remarks.

A. G. Brown was then called upon and he told of the interest and confidence manifested by the people of the community in Mr. M. I. Butterfield and his sons who own and operate the local canning factory. The next speaker was Fred L. O'Hair who stated that the time was now ripe for the thorough cooperation between the farmer and the business man. R. P. Mullins spoke next and briefly endorsed the ideas presented by both Mr. Brown and Mr. O'Hair. George S. Harney was called upon and told how the tomato growers in Montgomery county were having splendid success with the annual yields.

The principal speaker of the evening was S. C. Hoagland, of Vienna, Indiana, who gave interesting and thorough explanation of how to prepare the soil for the growing of tomatoes. Mr. Hoagland spoke for some time on the use of fertilizer and lime in his talk, he touched on the subject of proper plowing and harrowing in the tomato fields.

The speaker stated that the best way for the farmer and canner both to make money on tomatoes was through quality and quantity. He stated that at the same time the farmer was working to have quality in his tomato crops he would eventually get quantity. Thus the farmer would make a profit on the crop and the canner would also make money on the good quality and quantity of the tomatoes that were canned.

Mr. Hoagland explained just how he had increased his yield of tomatoes from about 5 tons per acre to 20 tons to the acre in only a short duration of time. His address was highly appreciated by the large crowd of farmers and business men who were present for the meeting. The Messrs. Butterfield are to be commended for their work in holding such a splendid gathering.

The growers were told how to get the best results from Putnam county soil. It has been demonstrated that the soil needs lime and with a good liming, any local soil will grow clover, which can be turned under, forming a mulch that will hold moisture and this combination will produce quality tomatoes which the trade is now demanding. The time seems to have passed when people will buy any kind of tomato. Mr. Butterfield says their trade wants the best, or the first grade of fancy tomatoes. For this kind of crop, they are contracting for 1924 at $12 per ton. The second and third grades, Extra Standard and Standard will come near this price, but they say the farmer can grow fancy tomatoes at a much better profit than he can grow a second or third class tomato.

A crop of 10 to 12 tons per acre will be fancy tomatoes, while a crop of four or five tons will be lower than a third grade, they report. Because of the demands for a higher quality, they are attempting to show the people how to get this kind of a crop, which is more valuable to the farmer as well as to the canner.

Mr. Butterfield is advocating a four crop rotation for best results. A soil on which tomatoes are grown this year, should be followed with corn, then wheat, with clover in the wheat. This clover can be cut the first season, and a full crop obtained the next season and with the first cutting, the clover should be allowed to grow rank and be turned under some seven inches in the late fall. To get this soil in the best condition the following spring for good tomatoes, it should be disked very deep several times, fertilized and a good seed bed made ready for the tomatoes. The turned-under clover will form the needed mulch of moisture and strength for the tomatoes during the dry season.

DIAMOND TRUST IS REVEALED

POLICE AND INTERNATIONAL DETECTIVES MAKE FOUR ARRESTS IN CHICAGO, MONDAY

A WOMAN IN THE CASE

Beautiful Girl Said to be a Ring Leader in the Diamond Trust. Suspects Are Being Watched

CHICAGO, March 18.—Four persons are in jail and a dozen other suspects are being watched in a diamond robbers trust investigation under way by two internationally known private detective agencies and police of Chicago and New York.

The operations of the trust netted some $8,000,000 in gems and insurance money, states attorney Robert E. Crowe estimated.

Morris Levinson, Chicago diamond merchant, Lawson Jaffs, salesman employed by Levinson, James Probasco, former maberet owner, and Miss Julia Smith, companion of Probasco, were taken into custody last night.

Other Chicago diamond dealers and salesmen are under investigation. Detectives also investigation a beautiful young woman of Oriental caste, who played the siren and lured diamond salesmen into submitting to fake robberies.

The robbers trust used salesmen and shaky diamond stores. The salesmen would be induced to submit to robbery, receiving a percentage of the loot. If they refused to enter into a conspiracy, they were robbed just the same and their reward was a beating instead of part of the loot.

The trust also kept watch for stores on the verge of bankruptcy and approached the proprietors with a fake robbery proposition. Many small jewelers agreed, with the result that the trust secured the diamonds and the proprietor collected the insurance.

The girl with the "Oriental caste" resided in a fashionable South Side hotel, detectives declared. She had an unerring nose for salesmen with valuable consignments, and after a round of dances and flirting, would suggest fake robberies.

A MUSICAL CONTEST WAS HELD TODAY

MUSIC MEMORY CONTEST HELD IN ASSEMBLY ROOM ON TUESDAY MORNING

PITTSBORO A WINNER

Hendricks County Team Won High School Honors for this District with High Score, Interest Shown

The Music Memory Contest of the Fifth District was held in the assembly room of the local court house on Tuesday morning beginning at 10:15 o'clock. Prof. Ralph C. Sloane, instructor of music in DePauw University and the city schools, was in charge of the affair.

The various high school teams were the first to take the test. They were followed by the grade school teams and then the rural school pupils. Only the judges and those in charge were allowed in the room while the different teams were taking the memory test.

Twenty records were placed on a table and numbers corresponding to the records were written on slips of paper and placed in a hat. An assistant to Prof. Sloane then drew a number from the hat and this record was placed on the victrola and played for five seconds. The boys and girls were then given fifty-five seconds to write the name of the piece and composer. When the twenty records had been played, the members of the different teams handed in their papers to the grading committee composed of DePauw music school students.

The Brazil high school team was accompanied by their instructor, Miss Kathleen Campbell, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. G. Campbell of this city. The team from Staunton high school was in charge of their music and art teacher, Miss Helen Purcell, who graduated from DePauw last Spring. Miss Purcell is a member of the Alpha Chi Omega sorority and is well known here.

One member of the winning team goes to the State Meet to be held at Shortridge high school in Indianapolis on Saturday.

The list of teams entered in the contest were as follows: Staunton, Brazil, Pittsboro high schools; Cloverdale, Bainbridge and Stillville grade schools and Sambo school, Brown township, No. 7, rural school from Hendricks county.

The Pittsboro team won the high school contest by making the score of 406 to the 357 points made by the Staunton team which ranked second. The Stillville team won the right to represent the grade schools of this district at the state contest by finishing in first place and Sambo, School No. 7, of Hendricks county won first place in the rural school test. Hendricks county schools won the three places last year.

The county unit plan of music is used in Hendricks county and Charles Greene, a boyhood chum, of Prof. Sloane of this city, is supervisor of music in that county.

ENGLAND ENTERS THE BIG RACE

THREE ENGLISH AIRPLANES TO ATTEMPT ROUND THE WORLD TRIP

WANT TO WIN FROM U.S.

American Aviators Have Started But The English Airmen Have Hopes of Finishing Long Trip. First

LONDON, March 18.—Stirred by the start of American airplanes on a world flight, Great Britain is rushing plans to enter the race and beat the Americans around the world, the Evening News declared today.

The Britishers will fly eastward, whereas the course of the United States army fliers is taking them westward. Three royal air force airmen, one at least using a Napier-Vicker amphibian plane similar to that which Sir Ross Smith flew to Australia, are hurrying secret preparations for a start, the News states.

It had been planned to start the British flight April 15, but the date has been put ahead. The British aviators have a schedule calling for completing of the globe girdling flight in three months, which would bring them home ahead of the Americans.

MATHER FIELD, SACRAMENTO, Calif., March 18.—(UP)—With the first lap of their 30,000 mile flight around the world completed, three United States army airplanes were here today ready to take off on the second leg of their long journey.

Today's flight, if weather conditions are favorable, will be from Mather Field to Vancouver Barracks, Washington, where the big Douglas air cruisers will be fitted with pontoons to prepare for their flight over land and water to Asia.

The planes arrived here without mishap at 2:05 p. m. yesterday after leaving Cloverfield, Santa Monica, at 9:32 a. m.

Lieutenant Howell Smith was the first to land, followed by Major Martin and Lieutenant Wade. Lieutenant Erick Nelson, the fourth of the world fliers hopes to take off from San Diego today to join his comrades in Portland or Seattle. He was delayed by late delivery of his plane by the manufacturers.

THE BONUS BILL

WASHINGTON, March 18.—The new bonus bill carefully drafted to avoid interference with tax reduction and to secure favorable consideration by President Coolidge was brought up for passage in the house today. Debate is to be limited to forty minutes and the opportunity to amend will be denied. The principal feature of the measure as drawn by the ways and means committee is a twenty year paid up endowment insurance policy, with a cash payment to ex-service men having less than $50 due them.

Yesterday a number of Democrats of the veterans' box vigorously criticized the bill and particularly the manner in which they said house leaders had arranged "to railroad it through" but none of the critics announced an intention of voting against it. Milligan, Missouri, called the bill a "gold brick" and a "direct insult to ex-service men." Stengle, New York, told the house "they've only asked you for a square deal and you are giving them insurance. Veterans' leaders in the house said that efforts to add a large cash option to the bill would be made in the senate.

COLORED MAN ARRESTED

Fern Morgan, colored of Anderson was arrested Monday night by Marshal Henry O'Hair for intoxication. Morgan was "full to the top" when found and was placed in jail to await a hearing before Mayor Zies Tuesday morning.

INSURANCE ADJUSTORS AT WORK

LOSSES ON MALONEY & YOUNG ROOM AND BARBER SHOP BEING ADJUSTED

TO REPAIR BUILDINGS

Rooms Will Be Made Over for Reopening Just as Soon as Work Can Be Done

Insurance adjustors from Indianapolis were in this city Tuesday morning to adjust the loss on the Maloney and Young Billiard Parlor and the Palace Barber Shop and their contents.

A statement from W. C. Murphy, owner of the two buildings was to the effect that as soon as the insurance could be adjusted, he would have the buildings repaired in order that the billiard parlor and the barber shop could get started cleaning their places and prepare for future openings. Mr. Murphy stated that he would get supplies and carpenters to work at once following the finishing of the work of the insurance adjustors.

Mr. Murphy proposes to replace the damaged roofs to start with and then the work of cleaning up the interior of both places can follow. Both businesses propose to continue in their same places. Several new billiard tables will be installed in the Maloney and Young room to replace those destroyed by the fire, also new fixtures, new floors and new counters.

The loss in the barber shop was covered with the exception of about $500, Charles Ewan, stated. It is believed the work of remodeling will be started by the first of the week and it will be pushed to completion as rapidly as possible.

In several instances firemen have narrowly escaped being run down by racing autoists who try to beat the fire truck to the fire and any more violations of these laws will put the drivers under a heavy fine. The statements issued by Mayor Charles F. Zies Tuesday morning are as follows: (1) Autoists trailing fire truck closer than two blocks will be subject to prosecution. (2) Motor vehicles are not to be parked within 200 feet of the fire or fire truck. (3) Autoists are not to drive over hose or attempt to pass where hose is laid. These statements were issued Tuesday morning following a narrow escape of one of the local firemen Monday night.

FIND A TUNNEL

VINCENNES, Ind., March 18.—The tradition that a tunnel exists in the basement of the old Harrison home was given some basis in fact here recently when Sam Kirk, local contractor, uncovered what is believed to be the entrance to the tunnel.

The supposed entrance is located in an offset in the wall. About two feet below the surface of the floor, the workmen ran into a layer of brick. Two layers were removed, revealing an opening 30 inches wide, of circular form. This, Kirk believes is the entrance to the tunnel.

Work of repairing the old house is being financed by the D. A. R. at a cost of several thousand dollars.

William Ratcliff of Indianapolis has been selected a spokesman in the McCray case. Mr. Ratcliff is well known here and especially in the northwest part of the county where he has many relatives.

In loving remembrance of my dear husband Joseph J. McAninch, who died March 18, 1923.

I can not say and it will not say that he is dead—he is just away.

With a cheery smile and a wave of the hand he has wandered into an unknown land and left us dreaming. How very fair it needs must be since he lingers there.

And you, oh, you, who the wild-est yearn for the old time step and the glad return, think of him faring on, as dear in the love of these as love of here, think of him still as the same.

Is say he is not dead, he is just away.

DePAUW NOTES.

The Woman's Self Governing association will give their annual "circus" Saturday evening in the Bowman Gymnasium. This affair is always one of the best get-togethers and entertainments of the year and townspeople usually swell the big crowd. "Blue Beard's Eighth Wife" the main stunt in five stupendous acts, will feature the program. Miss Cornelia Allen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Allen, jr., is chairman of the committee in charge of the "circus."

The Annual Catalogue of the University for the year 1923-24 is now ready for distribution. The Catalogue shows an enrollment for this year of 1497 in the College of Liberal Arts, including the Summer School, and 121 in the Music School making a total of 1618 in the University. Several dates have been arranged for the Annual Spring tour of the Glee Club, according to an announcement today by Otis Sanford, student manager. Several tentative dates have also been secured. The trip will begin March 29 and will continue until April 5.

Because of a demand from the cities at which the Glee Club sang last year, the same portion of the State will be toured this time. Engagements have been arranged with Valparaiso, LaPorte, and Elkhart. Tentative dates have been secured with Warsaw, Columbia City, Mishawaka and South Bend. Negotiations are now in progress to secure engagements with other cities in the same region. It had been originally planned that the trip this year should be through the south-eastern part of Indiana and into Ohio.

Dr. Joseph M. M. Gray gave his third address before the DePauw students this morning at chapel time. The speaker took for his subject, "Public Opinion," stating wherein public opinion has a great field in the world and the preacher of today must keep abreast of it. "The Preacher," said Dr. Gray, "should live upon the frontier of that field called public opinion. There are three fields of public opinion. They are (1) Religious discussion and belief; (2) Social interest and social ideals, and (3) National policy." Dr. Gray will give the last of the Simpson lectures this evening at 7 o'clock in Meharry Hall. The townspeople are cordially invited.

STORY OF E. L. DOHENY

INTERESTING STORY OF MILIONAIRE OIL MAN'S STRUGGLE FOR FORTUNE

LOS ANGELES, Calif., March 18.

At the close of the nineteenth century a miner came out of the desert and crossed the Mojave to Los Angeles. He was a young, middle aged man, well dressed and with the squint eyes which comes from long exposure under the pitiless sun.

There was little about this miner's appearance to set him apart from the hundreds of other men who poured into Los Angeles throughout the year for re-creation or a new "grub-stake." He spent most of his small savings on a smoking car ticket and reached the California practically penniless.

Other failure in the hard battle of existence he might easily have branded—and quite fittingly so, for the fact that he alone believed in it.

As than a quarter of a century ago, this miner, Edward Laurence Doheny, turning his labor into the development of Californian and Mexican oil fields, had become one of the richest men in the country, a figure behind the scenes in national politics, and one of the characters in the great naval oil scandal which "broke" in Edward L. Doheny was born at Lac du Lac, Wis., August 10, 1856. His father was Patrick Doheny, an Irishman, while his mother, before her marriage, was Elizabeth Daley.

There was little about Doheny's appearance to set him apart from other boys of his age. He attended school with rapidity, being particularly bright in the different mathematical and scientific subjects. He finished high school at the age of 15, did not go on to college.

There was a spirit of adventure in the youth which rebelled at the idea of spending his life in Fond du Lac, or any other one place. This spirit influenced him to leave home in 1872, at the age of 16. Young Doheny went to Kansas, where he joined a government surveying crew in mapping the thousands of acres of middlewest land then un-claimed.

The following year he accompanied a new government surveying party into Indian territory, which later became Oklahoma, where he helped subdivide the Comanch and Kiowa Indian reservations.

This outdoor life kept Doheny satisfied for three years. He was living in the open, liked the work, and spent all his extra hours studying books on geology and science, until he became familiar with many rock formations, and laid the foundation for a specialized knowledge of mineralogy and geology.

Then came news of the discovery of gold in the Black Hills, and Doheny rushed to that field, inspired by the lure of the yellow metal. But he was doomed to disappointment, as the Black Hills was still Indian territory, and not open to prospecting.

News of a silver strike in Colorado carried the youth to that state, where silver had been located, but oncoming winter had made prospecting impossible, and Doheny's restless spirit would not let him wait for spring.

Gathering three other disgruntled prospectors, Doheny set out afoot for New Mexico, with burros to carry their camping equipment.

There, and in Arizona, he spent the next 14 years—years of long, hard days of toil, and with success meager to the point of failure.

Doheny worked in almost every mining camp in the southwest. He discovered three new veins of ore during the long years, but his restless spirit would not let him tarry long enough to capitalize his findings.

Bradshaw, Cave Creek, Tombstone, Tono Basin and Globe—all famous names in the mining days of yore—knew his presence.

It was a hard life, one which forced the greatest frugality. He lived on little, for little was all he had. More than one year, his expenditures for foodstuffs amounted to less than $50.

Hardships and dangers beset the young miner as well. On one occasion he had his hand badly chewed by a mountain lion, which he finally killed. On another, he fell down a mine shaft and broke both his legs.

Neither during his mining days or during those of prosperity later was he known to drink or smoke. He married, taking for his wife Carrie Estelle Betzold, of Marshalltown, Ia.

absorbed all the knowledge of oil possibilities in California, which Good-year had compiled, which being a writer and student instead of a gambler, he had failed to capitalize.

One day Doheny saw a dump wagon going down the street filled with refuse. Part of the load was a thick, black substance, like oil. He dropped his tools and followed the wagon, and then went back when it returned to a section of the city, then in the outskirts, for another load of dirt.

Doheny looked up Canfield, his former partner. They decided to dig for oil, and scraping together all of the money they had, purchased a piece of the soil was black and sticky.

They had no tools, other than picks and shovels, which Canfield, who had turned to digging water wells, supplied. But they commenced digging, an toiled downward each day, while cynical neighbors stopped to scoff and make fun of the sweaty, laboring pair, down there in the hole, picking away at the black earth.

At 50 feet they struck a gas pocket, followed by a little oil. The gas nearly asphyxiated them, and they were forced to wait until it was gone. Then they started again, digging, digging, hoisting the dirt upward to the surface at the end of a rope.

At 155 feet they were forced to stop.

A banker finally agreed to back them to the extent of a few thousand dollars, and they bought some cheap drilling machinery, and continued sinking a shaft.

At 600 feet they struck oil—the first well sunk on the Pacific coast. It was not a big one, it is true, and only produced 45 barrels a day, but it pioneered the way and marked the turning point to fortune for Doheny and his partner.

The first well was the signal for more, and Doheny, using the knowledge he had gained from Goodyear's book, started out over the state. He discovered the famous Orange county fields. In 1899 he organized his first company, the Petroleum Development Company, which bought more oil lands in Kern county. He also became interested in the Coalinga fields.

Later, he sold the Kern county land to the Santa Fe railroad for a quarter of a million dollars—and again became a prospector.

Acting on the suggestion of A. A. Robinson, president of the Mexican Central railroad, Doheny, with Canfield and A. P. McGinnis, set out on what was destined to be the most successful oil prospecting trip ever made by man.

They were not tarrying afoot this time, and packing their "grub" on burros. Instead, they went in parlor cars, in a special train, and with servants to make their trip pleasant.

Down along the eastern coast of Mexico they traveled, to Cardenas, and commenced investigating the oil exudes in that vicinity. With the Mexican guide, they pushed through the dense underbrush of the jungle, reached the La Huasteca plain, and finally, on a little conical hill, came upon a pool of bubbling oil. Forgetting the humidity and the heat, they rushed forward, shouting with joy.

A cursory examination showed them that the district was probably underlain with oil in tremendous quantities.

Doheny, crafty and looking ahead, immediately commenced purchasing land on all sides, until he had acquired 45,000 acres at a very low price, as it was unfit for agriculture.

Then, after a long delay, the first machinery arrived, and in May, 1901, drilling was started, 35 miles west of Tampico. The well came in big, and was followed by others in quick succession.

No. 7, Casiano, was one of the largest. This well produced regularly for nine years, and delivered a total of 75,000,000 barrels of oil.

Doheny campaigned in Los Angeles for more funds to extend his operations. He sold stock, but when all the income was put back in drilling new wells, people lost faith in their purchases, and the campaign was not much of a success.

Doheny's faith, however, never faltered, and he made the few associates who stuck with him independently wealthy. He bought up all the stock in his enterprises he could afford until he finally owned 40 percent of Mexican Petroleum, the parent company.

Additional companies were organized and Doheny became president of the Mexican Petroleum, Ltd., the Huasteca Petroleum Company, the American Oilfields Company and the American Petroleum Company.

Amassing a wealth of crude oil, huge storage tanks and pipe lines were built. Two pipe lines were 173 miles long, while one concrete basin in the Mexican field held 2,500,000 barrels of oil. Oil tankers on the seas carried Doheny's output to many ports.

Doheny was a man of varied characteristics, and little incidents in his later life make up an excellent picture of his nature. Although he was all business throughout the day, he never lost touch with the lighter side of things, and kept abreast of the times in the arts. He owned a gallery of fine paintings in his Beverly Hills mansion and friends said he knew the history of every one.

He had few hobbies and did not go into social affairs to any great extent. He loved to raise tropical plants, and imported thousands of species from the Mexican jungles, nursing them along in his huge conservatory, which cost $100,000 and was so large canoes were paddled with ease on the surface of a pool beneath the glass-topped greenhouse.

He always kept himself physically fit, retaining the vigor of his outdoor prospecting days for years after he had passed middle age. He retained Abdul the Turk, a rubber in the Los Angeles Athletic Club, to keep him in physical trim. The story is told that from tips on the market, particularly oil stock, which Doheny imparted to the Turk while that attendant was working over him, Abdul amassed a fortune of over $200,000.

This physical fitness, it was said, enabled Doheny to administer a sound thrashing to his gardener, a much younger man, one time during an argument, after the oil magnate was past sixty.

During the war, Doheny worked in Washington, helping supply the navy with oil. He subscribed heavily to each liberty loan and s said to have bought a million dollars' worth of liberties.

After the war, and late in life, he took an active interest in politics, and was powerful in Democratic circles for many years, his money going into the party campaign chests.

In the early part of 1924, Doheny became involved in the great naval oil scandal, following his securing leases on oil properties in California which had been reserved for naval use. The outbreak of this investigation, which drew into it former Secretary of the Interior Fall, Harry F. Sinclair, another oil magnate, and men in high places in politics, resulted insteps being taken to invalidate the leases under which Doheny secured control of the California fields.

Doheny was always sure of himself and his own ability. The story is told that once, while still poor, he went to a Los Angeles banker and asked for a loan.

"I have nothing in money," Doheny replied, and I have no credit in the banking field, but I am one of the richest men in California, because I know more about California oil than any man."

Subsequent events proved that he was right. Doheny was charitable. He gave large sums to Catholic institutions, to the Y. M. C. A., to French relief funds and other benefits. He also aided the Boy Scout movement extensively.

He wagered $231,000 in 1916 that Wilson would be returned to office, and "would have bet a million," he said, "only my wife wouldn't let me."

He frequently entertained podigally. In 1907 he feted the Mexican ambassador, Enrique Creel, at a banquet, in Los Angeles' leading hotel at which the "sky was the limit." The event cost Doheny $10,000 it was said.

Electric fountains were installed for the dinner, 10,000 electric lights were strung about the banquet room, while the place was filled with singing birds. Scores of entertainers aided in making the event memorable.

How much money Doheny has probably no one knows, even himself. When he was on the stand in the Fall investigation he said he regarded the $100,000 he had "loaned" Fall as the ordinary citizen would regard $10.

If You Need a Medicine

You Should Have the Best

Have you ever stopped to reason why it is that so many products that are extensively advertised, all at once drop out of sight and are soon forgotten? The reason is plain—the article did not fulfill the promises of the manufacturer. This applies more particularly to a medicine. A medicinal preparation that has real curative value almost sells itself, as like an endless chain system, the remedy is recommended by those who have been benefited, to those who are in need of it.

A prominent druggist says, "Take for example Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a preparation I have sold for many years and never hesitate to recommend, for in almost every case it shows excellent results, as many of my customers testify. No other kidney remedy has so large a sale."

According to sworn statements and verified testimony of thousands who have used the preparation, the success of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is due to the fact, so many people claim, that it fulfills almost every wish in overcoming kidney, liver and bladder ailments, corrects urinary troubles and neutralizes the uric acid which causes rheumatism.

You may receive a sample bottle of Swamp-Root by Parcel Post. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., and enclose ten cents; also mention this paper. Large and medium size bottles for sale at all drug stores.

THAT DULL ACHING

Don't worry and complain about a bad back. Get rid of it! For weak kidneys, lame and aching backs, your neighbors recommended Doan's Pills. Ask your neighbor! Read this statement

Mrs. R. Stites, 207 W. Jacob St., Greencastle, says: "When living down in the country, I was stricken down with kidney trouble. It started with severe, shooting pains in my side, darting down to my knees. Then a dull, heavy, nagging ache in the small of my back and across my hips bothered me—I got so lame, I could hardly get out of a chair after sitting a few minutes and when I stooped, I got so dizzy, I would almost fall. Years ago my father had taken Doan's Pills and they had cured him, so I sent to Mullins' Drug Store for a supply. Doan's cured me of the attack and left me feeling well." (Statement given October 11, 1919.)

On May 2, 1923, Mrs. Stites added: "There is nothing to take the place of Doan's Pills and I am glad to renew my statement recommending them. Whenever my kidneys trouble me, Doan's are sure to give relief."

DePAUW NOTES

The University Bowling Alleys will reopen sometime the early part of this week and the post-poned interfraternity bowling tournament will begin immediately. The tournament is sponsored by the Brooklyn Club, the local bowling organization. All of the fraternities on the campus are entered and some good scores should be made as there is real competition and the alleys are both to be in excellent condition. The tournament is not to be on the elimination plan because of the lack of time. Only the total pins of the high five man team are to count as the winner. Each team is to bowl three games in order to determine their score.

The Brooklyn Club has been granted a membership in the Inter-Collegiate Bowling Association and will begin its series of matches Tuesday evening if the alleys are in condition. The DePauw team will be composed of Malott, Powell, Allan Campbell, Albert Campbell and Cooper, with Thompson and Bruhn acting as substitutes. The entire schedule has not as yet been arranged but the first match is to be with Syracuse University.

MICE CAUSE FIRE

INDIANAPOLIS, March 18—Fire Chief O'Brien today declared mice playing in a box of matches carelessly left on the kitchen table was apparently responsible for the fire in which the wife and five children of Percy Stoval were burned to death yesterday.

The fire started in the kitchen, Stoval said there was no fire in the kitchen stove and the only way the fire could have started was from the matches.

When Walter May, school truck driver, reported that the seven-year old daughter of Leffel Goss had failed to return to her home three and one-half miles southeast of town, Monday evening, he notified school authorities and a search was made for her in the business houses. When she could not be located, her parents were notified. Telephone inquiries made at the homes of her school mates located her about 6:30 at the home of W. R. Walker, whose little daughter she had accompanied home. Mr. Walker lives four miles east of town on another road.

H. S. Notes

The call for track and baseball was answered Monday afternoon in the usual Purple and Gray spirit. There were eighteen out for baseball and seventeen out for track. There are more expected to turn up later, however, and this will make things look better.

The track men will meet Wednesday afternoon at 3:30 with Mr. Daviess, who is taking charge of that division of the work.

The baseball men will meet coach Rhea on the same afternoon at 3:15. Work will start immediately. There are six games scheduled so far.

The first meet will be held at Brazil on April 19. Time for preparation is limited.

Tomorrow is Bank Day in the Schools. Don't forget your book and money.

At the regular weekly chapel this morning the Discussion League contest was held. The two debaters were Ruth Davis and Rosalie McCollough. They gave plans whereby peace might be established throughout the world. First place was won by Rosalie McCollough and Ruth Davis was second.

Prof. Kelly, the man of many excellent treats for the High School, gave another one of his happy surprises this morning. After the debate he introduced a man whom, so Mr. Kelly said, is the illustrious son of an illustrious father. Mr. James Paxton Boorhis entertained the students for a period of about half an hour with readings, etc., from Riley, Twain and other favorites. His interpretation was very good and very much appreciated.

Mr. Boorhis has played with celebrated actors as well as knowing and having been known by many celebrities.

His last selection which he gave after many encores as the final number was an interpretation of an old Bachelor which was very good.

JURYMEN ARE SCARCE

INDIANAPOLIS, March 18—The defense in the case of the state of Indiana against Governor McCray, on trial on embezzlement and larceny charges before Special Judge Harry O. Chamberlin, passed the jury over to the prosecutor shortly before noon today.

INDIANAPOLIS, March 18—The task of securing a jury for the trial of Governor McCray on charges of embezzlement and larceny became increasingly difficult today as questioning of the first venire of 100 talesmen continued.

Of the thirty-three examined yesterday, 22 had been definitely rejected and 11 men remained in the jury box for further questioning. It was evident, however, that the defense attorneys would reject several of them.

McCray's attorneys, in their questioning of talesmen today, continued to place great importance on questions seeking to determine how much the prospective jurors had read in the newspapers of the McCray case.

It was evident that most of the talesmen had read the newspaper accounts of the bankruptcy hearing on the governor at considerable length, and a good many of them had formed an opinion regarding the governor's guilt or innocence.

Great care was taken to learn whether the talesmen had ever had any banking experience.

Michael J. Ryan questioned prospective jurors for the governor during the first day of the trial. For the state, Eph Inman, special assistant prosecutor, asked the preliminary questions.

Unless there is greater progress toward the selection of a jury, it will probably be a week before taking of testimony is begun.

Throughout the proceedings yesterday Governor McCray sat at the table of his attorneys and listened attentively as each man was questioned. He appeared indifferent to the stares of the crowds who jammed the court room.

SPRING LAWN SECRETS

A garden is incomplete without the foil of a fine, green, velvety lawn to frame the colors of the flowers. The care of the lawn may start while snow is on the ground. Sprinkling new seed upon the snow and allowing thaws to carry it down to the soil is an approved method. It has the advantage of permitting a more even distribution of the seed as it is more readily discernible on the snow than when sown directly on the soil and it is an easy matter to get the entire plot covered without missing any spots. It also gives the needed early start.

With the first thaw that clears the ground, a mulch of pulverized sheep manure may be strewn to encourage early growth as soon as the frost is out of the ground.

If the soil is uneven, and the lawn bumpy, the greensward should be rolled as soon as the frost is out of the ground. Rolling is a most important factor in securing a firm, velvety lawn and one most neglected. It also serves to firm the seed into the ground and hasten germination.

Easily manipulated rollers with water ballast are the most convenient for the small place where they must be operated by hand. These rollers come in various sizes, a 50-pound size before the water ballast is put into it, weighing 150 pounds with the water in the roller. They vary in size up to 110 pounds dry and 500 pounds water filled.

In many communities three or four families are joint owners of a roller which serves for three or four yards. The heavier sizes need two men, one to push and one to pull for speedy action. They are easier to handle in small yards than the solid rollers which need horse power or motor.

INDIANAPOLIS LIVESTOCK
INDIANAPOLIS, March 18—Despite an advance on the Chicago market, hog prices declined 15 cents here today. Traders attributed the drop to an attempt to readjust local prices "in line" with values prevailing at other markets. Receipts were 8,000.

Trading opened at a flat price of $7.60 for all weights with a top of $7.70 for one load of extra-light stock. Later packers brought a considerable proportion of the receipts at $7.55. Sows and pigs dropped a quarter, pigs selling down from $6.50 and sows down from $6.50.

Prices tended slightly higher in the cattle market especially in good steers and cows. Activity of large buyers affected a good clearance of the head received.

Although a few odd fancy calves brought $14, the calf market was generally a half dollar lower, with practical top of $13.50. The top moved at $12.50 to $13. Receipts were 900.

Prices were steady in a dull market in the sheep and lamb section. No live-fed lambs sold down from $10 and ewes down from $9.50. Receipts were 100.
